

HKICT Awards 20th Anniversary Video Series – Acting Commissioner for Digital Policy and Judges Highlight

The new generation should not only pursue the height of technology but also its depth and warmth Truly impactful innovation often stems from daily life from careful observation and genuine care Innovation and creativity are not unrealistic fantasies they must be grounded in reality and be impactful
We need to better understand real-world pain points Don't design your work because you want to win an award Your work should aim to address the pain point you are trying to solve The most important thing is to remember “Know yourself and know your opponent and you will win every battle” do not become complacent instead, continuously challenge yourself and embrace change
If I were to summarise in one sentence
I would say we have evolved from fighting individual battles into a full-fledged end-to-end innovation and technology ecosystem Today, Hong Kong's Innovation and Technology (I&T) ecosystem is highly comprehensive and multi-dimensional The evolution of innovation and technology in Hong Kong over the past two decades I really think we've gone from a "technological desert" to what has now transformed into the "tropical rainforest"
