

HKICT Awards 20th Anniversary Video Series – Healthcare and Community Highlight

For the sake of our patients we cannot give up We press forward developing new solutions to address their needs Hong Kong as an international city with a global perspective Innovative medical technology will undoubtedly play an essential role in the future As researchers
we should be driven by the mission to contribute to society and improve people's lives
That is the true driving force behind technological progress
For the next generation of innovators I believe the most important thing is to act early and truly understand market needs rather than focusing solely on technology itself
